One of the best ways to protect the people you love is to get your flu shot. The shot is the number 1 way to avoid getting the flu. Even if you are young and healthy, you probably come into contact with many people who are not as lucky. People at risk for serious flu-related illness include:

- Adults ages 65 and older
- Children younger than age 5 — especially babies younger than 6 months old, since they are too young to get the shot
- People with chronic conditions, such as diabetes, heart disease, and lung disease

Getting your flu shot can help you avoid passing the flu to them.

Benefits for you

There are also plenty of benefits for you, too. The flu shot lowers your risk of getting the flu by about 60 percent, the CDC says. The flu shot also makes you less likely to miss work or school because of the flu. If you do get the flu, the shot may make your symptoms less severe.

Talk with your primary care physician (PCP) about getting the flu shot. It is not just for you. It is for the people you love, too.

Medicines to treat ADHD in children

Children who have attention-deficit/hyperactivity disorder (ADHD) are often given medicine. Your child’s primary care physician (PCP) will work with you to decide if your child needs medicine and, if so, which one is best.

Possible side effects
Medicines can cause side effects. Most are mild and get better with time. Check with your PCP or pharmacist about possible side effects.

Some types of ADHD medicine come with guides with more information for parents. That’s because of recent reports of sudden death in children and teens with heart abnormalities who were taking them. Youngsters who take these medicines also face a slightly higher risk for paranoia, mania, or hearing voices, according to the Federal Drug Administration.

When to take
If your child takes a medicine once a day, the best time for him or her to take it is just after breakfast. If he or she takes medicine twice a day, it is best taken 30 to 45 minutes before breakfast and before lunch.

Some children take a medicine “vacation” on weekends. Your child’s PCP can discuss whether this is OK for your child. Some children also stop taking medicine during the summer months, when school is out. Your child’s PCP can discuss the best schedule for your child.

Ingredients
1 cup frozen chopped bell pepper, thawed and drained
1 cup frozen chopped onion, thawed and drained
1 can (15 to 16 ounces) no-salt-added black beans, rinsed and drained
1 can (14 ½ ounces) no-salt-added diced tomatoes, undrained
½ cup salsa or picante sauce
Vegetable oil spray
8 6-inch corn tortillas
1 cup shredded light Mexican mixed cheese blend or Monterey Jack cheese
¼ tsp. (heaping) crushed red pepper flakes
¼ cup snipped fresh cilantro

Instructions
1. Preheat the oven to 400 degrees.
2. In a large bowl, stir together the bell pepper, onion, beans, undrained tomatoes, and salsa.
3. Spray a 9-inch square pan with vegetable oil spray. Spoon 1 cup bell pepper mixture into the pan. Arrange 4 tortillas in the pan, overlapping as necessary. Spoon half the remaining sauce over the tortillas. Top with ½ cup cheese. Repeat.
4. Lightly spray a sheet of aluminum foil with vegetable oil spray. Cover the pan with foil, lightly sprayed side down to prevent the cheese from sticking.
5. Bake for 30 minutes. Remove the foil. Bake for 5 minutes more, or until hot and bubbly. Sprinkle with red pepper flakes and cilantro. Cut into 4 squares.
